

Serial No. Not Yet Assigned
Atty. Doc. No. 2004P20726WOUS

ABSTRACT

A single sideband signal is generated from an input optical signal. An optical phase modulator performs optical phase modulation on the input optical signal in accordance with a control signal to produce the single sideband signal. A converter converts the input optical signal into a corresponding electrical signal. A control signal generator generates the control signal in response to an optical signal pulse shape of the input optical signal.